

Internship (m/f/x)

SprachUnion provides language training for company employees and private individuals. We are looking for students and graduates (m/f/x) who already have classroom experience and are interested in teaching.

What would you contribute?

- You are currently studying and would like to get a taste of real-world experience
- You love languages and have very strong communication skills in German
- You take an independent, conscientious and structured approach to your work
- You have good social and intercultural skills
- Good knowledge of English would be an advantage

What can you expect?

- You will support the management, our project managers and the team with everyday business/consulting tasks
- You will contribute to marketing projects (for example blog posts or appearances at trade fairs)

- You will join a lively, motivated team
- You will benefit from flat hierarchies, plenty of independent work and the opportunity to put your own ideas into practice
- You will gain an insider's view of all areas of the company and be able to get involved in all of them
- Start date: immediately or by arrangement
